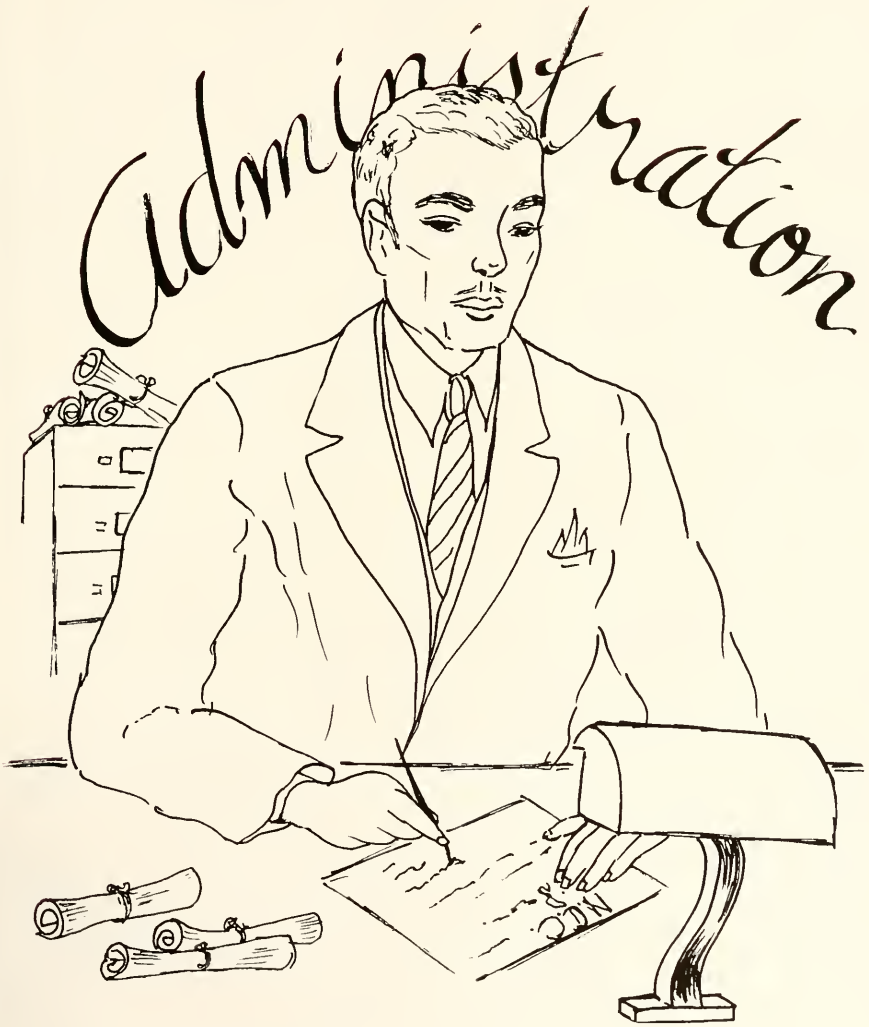
Getting Acquainted



Administration

President
James Edward Shepard
Ph.G., A.M., D.D., Litt.D., LL.D.

After thirty-six years in the educational service of his native state, President Shepard still retains the kindness and devotion to ideals which have endeared him to so many students and friends of North Carolina College

To the Members of the Class of 1947:

I appreciate this opportunity to express my congratulations and best wishes to all members of the graduating class. May you all look forward to careers of satisfaction in usefulness to your fellow-men.

Aside from our pride in the specific training you possess, North Carolina College will rejoice even more in the all-around social contributions you make in your community. The demands of life always involve people. May the challenges you face be met with courage and the greatest ability to deal and get along with others. Campus experiences with members of your class indicate the admirable start that has been made in these directions, so you go out with the confidence of your Alma Mater.

Your departure means no less interest in you on the part of those who continue their work here, for whatever contributions this school makes to the citizenship and life of America it will always be accomplished through the lives of her graduates.

With every good wish from all members of the staff, I am

Very truly yours,

James E. Shepard, President

In Memoriam

In the passing of Mitchell Ward, a former student of this institution, who gave his life in the service of his country, the Maroon and Gray Yearbook Staff pays solemn tribute to him. Mitchell, who would have graduated with the Class of '47, took an active interest in all campus activities.

IN RETROSPECT

In September 1943, in the very midst of a second World War, the class of 1947 came to North Carolina College. Coming to college during a period in which tensions were strong, commodities scarce, and conditions not normal the class realized from the very beginning that its responsibilities would be greater than in ordinary circumstances.

That first year found the class getting off to a good start. Professor C. L. Holmes stated that the class of '47 was the first class, in a very long time, to begin its freshman year with a substantial treasury.

Officers were elected and it deserves mention here to state that the president, Samuel Shepard, and the secretary, Alice Chavious elected at the beginning of the freshman year have remained with the class throughout the entire four years. Under the skillful leadership of its officers, the class that first year worked diligently to keep those students, whose school careers had been interrupted by the call to arms, informed on campus activities by sending school newspapers and by encouraging letter writing. The class placed a Service Honor Roll on the bulletin board of the Administration building.

The Spring of 1943 found the class crowning its activities for the year with a Freshman Ball. The Ball will long be remembered for its beauty as well as for the scarcity of men. The class had lost some of its men. They had been inducted into the armed forces.

Another September found those among the class, who had diligently applied themselves, returning as Sophomores. Veterans returning from war duties found themselves gladly welcomed into the class. Although the class had dwindled in number the Freshman year, the loss was made up the Sophomore year by returning veteran students.

This was a year in which the class's activities were at a minimum. Perhaps one can say with some degree of truth that the lag was due to the intensive study program followed by most of the members of the class.

There is evidence to show that the scholarship of the class began to move upward that year.

The girls of the Sophomore class upheld their class in an inter-dormitory competitive Christmas Sing and were awarded first prize by Dr. A. L. Turner, former Acting-Dean of the college.

The Sophomore year came to a close with a dance at which individual sophomores, who had done superior work were recognized publicly.

The year 1945 was a great year! The class returned and assumed an air of dignity for this was the Junior year. The war ended and more veterans joined the ranks of the class.

Football returned to the campus. The Junior class aided the Senior class in sponsoring a gala Homecoming Day.

Realizing the dire need for a representative student council, the class appointed a committee to formulate a constitution for the proposed student government. The committee along with faculty advisors worked diligently on the constitution, which was later presented to the entire student body at the beginning of the school term 1946-1947.

The Junior-Senior affair sponsored by the Junior class was the first of its type to be held on the campus. It was termed a Dinner-Dance by the Juniors. It had all the trimmings including a mistress-of-ceremonies, a guest speaker, and presentations of both Senior and Junior class presidents. It was an affair to be long remembered.

As Seniors, the class returned in September 1946 to find that its number had steadily increased with more veterans. The school term started with the Senior Class launching the student government program, which proved successful, and has resulted into a functioning student council.

The class under the expert leadership of Clifford Jenkins sponsored the Maroon and Gray Yearbook with a buckram cover. The outstanding features of the book are a Court of Beauty with the selection of the queen by Miss Hazel Scott, star of stage and screen, and a detailed aerial view of the college campus.

The class has devoted its time to the production of a class play, "The Lost Horizon," under the direction of Dr. Helen G. Edmonds, the class gift and Class Day Activities.

Individual members of the class have distinguished themselves during the four years at North Carolina College. John Brown, the All-American athlete, has accepted an offer to play professional football with the Los Angeles Dons. Ethel Edmundson, a Social Science major, received the Graduate Teachers' Scholarship to the University of Chicago where she will study for a Master of Arts degree in European History.

With definite symptoms of nostalgia, the class of 1947 walks through the gates of North Carolina College, turning around for one last look. The place seems to have taken on an ancient, time honored air or perhaps it was never noticed before. Thus ends one phase of the life of the class of '47. A new, startling and exciting world challenges it. Will the class meet the challenge?

Junior Class

Our college career began back in 1944 as a multitude of over one hundred typical freshmen, green, disorganized, and not knowing what college was all about. We did our part in withstanding the assaults of the upperclassmen and rode the "goat" as well as any class of freshmen ever enrolled at State. Our accomplishments for the year amounted to more than an adjustment to our new environment. In this the sophomores played a conspicuous part.

When we became sophomores, we approached somewhat nearer to civilization. Harold Epps molded for our class a spirit of cooperation which won the admiration and support of the faculty and other student organizations.

We have still another year before graduation, and we may be heard from before that time, and for evermore afterwards.

Prominent in the affairs of every organization on the campus are the Sophomores, who, rising from the obscurity of their freshmen year, have reached the surface of this jumble-pot of students. Ranging in their interests from brawn to brain they have made every phase of student activity feel their influence and benefit by the worth of Sophomores.

The second year of this class is about to close. Its beginning was brilliant, offering an innovation which, though never executed is worthy of mention. It was an attempt to modify the heretofore promiscuous hazing of freshmen. Beyond the things just mentioned little has been accomplished by the class as a unit. The sophomore class history now becomes a record of the achievements of members. A complete list of Sophomores whose endeavors include scholarship, athletic prowess, aesthetic ingenuity, and generally constructive work, would be tiresomely long, because it would include almost the entire class membership. It must be remembered that "A Sophomore is Never Passive."

FRESHMAN CLASS

Freshman History . . .

This freshman class has the honor of being one of the largest that has ever entered N. C. College. This group of young men and women, showing an exceptional amount of initiative and spirit for newcomers, is interested in maintaining high standards in scholarship and athletics. The most lucid and vivid exhibitions of school spirit are seen in athletics, and especially in intramural events, therefore it might be interesting to note that the class has identified itself actively in athletics at the school.

They realize that through virtue and integrity, their highest ideals can be accomplished, and with this in mind have attempted to make an honest and speedy adjustment to college conditions, so all of the activities of the school: musical, social, athletic, literary and civic have had their share of freshmen, who sometimes with hesitance, but always with curiosity and willingness, have tried to get themselves into every possible activity on the campus.

The class wishes to thank those Juniors and Seniors, who, giving up a portion of their vacation week returned early in the fall to induct them into N. C. College life, to point out the obstacles to success, and in all cases to encourage and sustain them during a trying period.

Football at N. C. C.

Football at N. C. C. in 1946 was highlighted with several colorful games. The team completed the season with 7 wins and 3 losses, the most spectacular win being over Tennessee State College 14-6 in the "Capital Classic" game in Washington, D. C. Captained by Co-Captains John Brown and Carl Galbreath the Eagles got off to a great start with an 85-0 win over a Fort Jackson army team. An undefeated season seemed to be in the making as the Eagles rolled over Delaware State 29-0, Bluefield State 19-0, Winston-Salem Teachers 27-0 and Virginia Union 13-0. On November 1, the Eagle Domain was honored by the sponsors of the "Capital Classic" with an invitation to participate in this annual event, labeled by many as the "Little Rose Bowl." Going to Washington as the underdogs, the boys had to really "Key" themselves for the game. With Peerman and Whitfield playing some of their best brand of football at the end positions, while Britt and Galbreath displayed some of their fancy ball carrying, N. C. College surprised 27,000 fans with a stunning upset over the No. 1 football team in the country. Lawrence Perry, one of the best defensive men on the field, combined his talents with "Big" Brown, the center, to hold the Tennesseans to one tally. Playing superb ball against a superb team, the products of Coach Herman Riddick handed the men of Coach Kean their first and only defeat for the 1946 season. Britt accounted for the first tally on a 10-yard sprint off tackle that climaxed an 80-yard drive. Galbreath darted 37 yards for the second score on a beautiful end run. Our drop kicking specialist and quarterback, James "Jimmie" Lineberger, accounted for both extra points, in the game that was said to be the greatest ever played in Griffith Stadium.

The boys from Durham received their first set-back from N. C. College's greatest rival, A. & T. College. Lafayette, Roberson, Robinson, Brown, Whitfield and others were playing their first game against the Aggies since "Dr." William "Gus" Gaines (All-American 1941-1942) kicked 3 field goals and 1 extra point against A. & T. in 1942. These men received their first taste of defeat from an Aggie aggregation since 1940, when Richard "Dick" Mack, one of N. C. C.'s greatest running backs, was at his best. A. & T. upset this great 1946 team 17-0 just as they did in 1940.

In our Homecoming Day game with another of our traditional rivals, J. C. Smith University, the men of Maroon and Gray carried on in grand style. Defeating J. C. Smith 20-0, the boys rounded out one of N. C. C.'s greatest Homecomings. With gala floats, class and organizational queens, homecoming was the greatest in Eagle history. Miss Bernice Foster of Durham, reigned as "Miss Homecoming" in honor of the men of Eagledom. Miss Foster was crowned at the halftime by Co-Captain Carl Galbreath as Co-Captain John Brown looked on. Her attendants were Misses Pauline Marsh, Margaret Stewart and Mable Dupree. The game was highlighted with a spectacular 80-yard run by Galbreath which set off the fire works that enabled the team to march on.

In our most important game of the season with the Trojans of Virginia State, the Eagles, still gunning for a top place in the conference, fell to the tune of 14 to 6. In a game that was bitterly fought, the Eagles' line received its greatest praise as the "Sons of Troy" took to the air to outscore the team. William "Huck" Peerman accounted for our lone marker on a beautiful pass from William Lafayette, one of the best passers in the C. I. A. A. Conference.

In our last game against Shaw University, the entire sports world was surprised as the Bears defeated the Eagles for the first time in over 10 years 13-6. In this traditional Thanksgiving Day game, N. C. C. with many injuries, was surpassed by a hard charging, fast driving team that operated from the "T-Formation" in expert form. Bellamy of the Shawites was the big man with Robinson directing the team, the best in Shaw's recent years of football. John "Big" Brown of N. C. College displayed, even in defeat, the qualities that made him an All-American. Against Shaw University, on Thanksgiving Day 1946, Brown played one of his greatest games of football. N. C. College received its single tally on a Shaw pass intercepted behind N. C. C.'s goal by Tim Armour. Armour raced 105 yards for the score with beautiful agility, much power, and alertness. This was the longest run recorded in the C. I. A. A. circuit for the season and possibly the longest in the conference history.

With the end of the Shaw game came curtains for the collegiate football careers of five N. C. College players. Finishing college football in a blaze of glory was John "Big" Brown, Co-Captain, and one of our most valuable players. Brown was selected on All-C. I. A. A. teams by every newspaper in this section of the country and on All-American teams by every Negro newspaper in the country. After four brilliant years in the C. I. A. A. Conference, his plans at this writing include a tryout with the Los Angeles Don Professional football team. Hubert "Butch" Robinson, ending three years in an Eagle uniform, was chosen on the second team All-C. I. A. A. at the guard position to bring another conference honor to this school for 1946. William "Huck" Peerman, 1940 All-C. I. A. A. end, completed four years as a wearer of the Maroon and Gray. Chosen by Coach Johnny McLendon on his All-Ten Year team, "Huck" definitely joins the ranks of N. C. C.'s Greats. Rudolph "Rocky" Roberson one of the most versatile athletes to join the Eagle's brood, completed 4 years of varsity football at this college. A natural athlete, he always performed true to Eagle form. James "Flash" Greenlee completed 2 years of varsity football and developed into a tackle respected by all. With 2 years' experience, he maintains a high spot in the ranks of Eagledom. Hanging up their Maroon and Gray uniforms, these men completed their participation in athletics on this campus. They have won a spot in the hearts of followers of North Carolina College football and now take their place among Eagle football immortals.

Before completing this review of the 1946 football season, it is with highest respect that I pay homage to the entire squad and its coaches. The squad with such stalwarts as Carl Galbreath, the most valuable player on the team and All-C. I. A. A. quarterback for 1945 and 1946, Lawrence Perry, Angier Lawrence, Charles White, William Middleton, Roy Lee, Percy Jones, Amzi Boozer and James "Jimmie" Lineberger really held its own. Our hats are off to the entire 1946 combination for the season's performance. The coaching staff composed of three student coaches and Head Coach Herman Riddick, Line Coach Leroy E. Walker, End Coach and Director of N. C. College athletics, and Backfield Coach E. C. "Pops" Turner was one of which we are proud. The three student coaches contributed much to the development of the team. George Mack, N. C. C.'s first All-American and N. C. C.'s most versatile football player in history, gave much good training to our centers. Richard Mack, captain of our 1938 and 1940 teams, and one of the two greatest passing, running and kicking stars ever to don a Maroon and Gray uniform, was a great asset to the backfield coaching staff. Roy Moore, remembered by many for the many punts he blocked, was a valuable assistant at the end position. All three of these student coaches were picked by Coach McLendon on his All-Ten Year team from N. C. College. The head coach, Herman Riddick, developed Carl Galbreath into All-C. I. A. A. caliber. Line Coach L. E. Walker moulded together one of the most respected lines in the conference. These coaches tutored a half-inexperienced team into a fourth place in the C. I. A. A. The brains behind the team deserves all the credit it can get. We are giving it all we can. Orchids to this great coaching staff and may we look forward to a great season in 1947.

MRS. ANNIE DAY SHEPARD

The Maroon and Gray Staff is instinctively reminded of the wife of our president, who before her death, proved herself an ardent friend to all faculty and students who knew her. The interest taken by Mrs. Shepard in all phases of student activities and devotion in development of the school, will always be an inspiration to former students.

Kneeling, left to right: Henry White, St. Joseph, Mo.; Robert Herring, Kansas City, Mo.; Marland Buckner, Kansas City, Mo.; Aubrey Stanley, Beaufort, N. In the winter time at N. C. C. all the eyes are turned toward the college gymnasium and the ever-flying Eagle basketball team. For the past seven years the Eagles have always finished first or second in the conference and again the C. I. A. A. crown was taken by this school for the 1947 season. N. C. College was kept in the limelight in the basketball world as Coach McLendon's boys won 15 out of 18 conference games to maintain the best offensive record in the C. I. A. A. over an eight year period. The Eagles led by Captains John Brown and Aubrey Stanley played probably the toughest schedule in the conference. Receiving their stiffest competition from A. & T. College, Howard University, Union University, Virginia State College and Morgan State College, the sons of Eagledom lost one game to each of the three latter teams. Stanley, the team's highest scorer in 1945, 1946 and 1947, was one of the greatest threats in the conference. In many games, coaches used two men to attempt to stop this shooting artist. The team, losing all three games away from home, always gave their foe a great, hard game and provided the fans with the color that goes with every sports attraction. Probably the most spectacular game of the season was against A. & T. College. It was in this game that N. C. C. trailed in the last three minutes of play and had everyone on edge until the Aggies "Blew-Up" and the Eagles took advantage of the situation. With Brown directing the team from the floor in his cool manner, the team caught up with their opponents and went on to defeat them. Another of our most pressing games, was against Howard University. Even though the team did not trail Howard at any point during the game, the Bisons stayed within four points of the Eagles and allowed

N. C. C. to win by one point, 44-43.

The season was finished with this school holding many records, in fact holding more records in basketball than any other school in the C. I. A. A. and possibly in the nation. The end of the 1947 season left this school with 131 wins against 30 losses for an .884 percentage over a ten year period. The national record for highest game point average of 66 points made in 1944 still holds; also the C. I. A. A. all-time scoring record, which is 119-34 made against St. Augustine College in 1944, still stands and is one in which we have much pride. To mention a few more of the records that are held by this school, I relate to you these that I consider most significant: (1) consecutive games won, 26; (2) first team to win a C. I. A. A. Tournament; (3) more championships and runner-ups than any team in the C. I. A. A. and (5) ranked as the No. 1 basketball team in the country four times. It is with pride that we ended our 1947 conference season on top and continue in the spotlight in conference competition.

Stanley In Action Against Morgan Bears

In the post season C. I. A. A. Tournament, Coaches McLendon and Leroy Walker took their conference champions to Washington, D. C., with every team in the tournament out to trip the high-flying Eagles. Delaware State was a push-over for the boys from Durham as they defeated this fighting team 71-60 in the first game of the tourney. The second tournament encounter was not an easy one for the boys. Howard University was the foe and a mighty foe the Bisons were. With the score see-sawing through the entire game, the

ATHLETE OF YEAR

John E. Brown

At the time of year when recognition is given to members of various athletic teams for outstanding performances, it was only fitting that North Carolina College, this year, selected its first "Athlete of the Year." The recipient of this honor for the year 1946 and 1947 is John "Big" Brown, 6' 4", 234 lb. senior from Gary, Indiana. Having excelled in North Carolina College's two major sports, football and basketball, and captained the teams out of his four years of play, Brown climaxed his collegiate career in athletics in a blaze of glory. An honor student, student leader, and a team leader, the selection of this gentleman could not have been better. The Maroon and Gray is happy to commend this well known Eagle and member of Coach McLendon's All-Time Basketball and Football Teams for North Carolina College for being the first recipient of this high honor. We are happy to add his name to those of George Mack and Reginald Ennis listed in our imaginary "Hall of Fame."

Eagles Depart For Tournament

men of Maroon and Gray edged out over the men from the capital city 44 to 43. In the finals, the highly favored Eagles met the underdog team of the tournament, Virginia State. This seventh place team scored one of the greatest upsets in C. I. A. A. history as they defeated N. C. College 54 to 47 to win the tournament crown and leave N. C. College in second place. The second place Eagles could not be denied the recognition that was due them. The newspapers exemplified this when they placed three sons of Eagledom on their all-tournament teams. Receiving the honor to be placed on this mythical team were John "Big" Brown, Richard Miller and Robert Herring. All three men were placed on the first team. In addition to these men bringing All-Tournament honors to the school, and in addition to being the runner-ups in the tournament, the Eagles returned to their nest with the greatest trophy ever to grace a North Carolina College trophy case. This trophy, the one of which we are all proud, was given to the team for "Outstanding Team Sportsmanship and Team Decorum." The greatest sportsmen in the C. I. A. A. basketball conference had finished another great tournament and proved that men can be great losers as well as great winners.

At the end of the season, Coach McLendon announced his list of most valuable players on the squad. Repeating from last year was Aubrey "Stinkey" Stanley who was accompanied by John "Big" Brown and Richard "Mice" Miller. Brown, considered by many to be the best general ever to play in the conference, was the mainstay of the team. An All-American guard in 1942, he was the sparkplug of the 1947 team. Miller, a 5' 6" junior from Kansas City, Kansas, was considered by many to be the most aggressive, best defensive and most sportsmanlike player on the team. The performance displayed by these three men during the 1947 season would merit them a place on any person's valuable player list.

To complete my summary of the 1947 basketball season, I again doff my hat to a great squad and a great coaching staff. The squad, with three seniors, was one of which any follower of basketball would offer highest respect. Elmer McDougal, a steller center and holder of the conference free-throw record (19 out of 20 in three games) contributed his talents to the development of the team. The "whiz kids," Moreland Buckner, Frank Galbreath, Richard Miller, and Robert Herring, have earned a place in the pages of C. I. A. A. history. They received the highest respects from every team encountered and became the most feared combination in the conference. Each of these midgets, standing under 5' 6" was a constant threat and each was a ball hawk. Other mainstays were Harvey, the first player to score in a

The W. A. A. is an organization of which one becomes a member by maintaining a "C" average. The governing body is a board of directors elected by popular ballot. By cooperating with W. A. A.'s all over the country we try to further a spirit of sportsmanship, interest in athletics and physical well-being among college women.

The association sponsors major, minor and individual sports, in addition such activities as dancing, swimming and hiking.

Awards are made on the basis of points which are earned by participation in the activities over a period of four years.

The W. A. A. is a member of Negro Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Association which is composed of Colleges having an intramural program for women. Each year the N. W. I. A. A. sponsors seasonal sport days at which times representatives from the college W. A. A.'s come together and participate in sports with awards given to the winning color team.

This has been a favorable year for the Women's Athletic Association, and as more young women become interested and the enrollment increases the prospects for a greater future organization are indeed very bright.

ATHLETICS IN SPRING—

1947 Track Team

In the spring, all eyes are turned from the varsity basketball activities and are focused on the intramural sports among men and women, our track team and baseball team, both in their infant stage. Now in the second year of track participation in the C. I. A. A. conference, North Carolina College's cindermen have won the respect of every coach and team in the conference. With meager facilities and few men, Coach Walker took his track team to the C. I. A. A. track meet at Hampton, Virginia, and won fourth place honors in the 1946 meet. Along with fourth place honors for the team, individual honors were taken by members of our squad. Rudolph "Rocky" Roberson, one of N. C. C.'s first three-letter men, established a new record for the discus. Hurling the discus 136', he completely outclassed all other participants. In addition to establishing a new record for the discus, Roberson threw the javelin 172' 10" to become the 1946 champion javelin thrower in the C. I. A. A.

In 1947 more interest was shown in the track activities. The 1947 squad, under the captaincy of Earl "Lover" Foster, had such talent as Charles S. Harrison, Charles White, Grady Bethel, Samuel B. Whitfield and Samuel Williams. These men under abnormal conditions gave their hearts and souls to the task of putting North Carolina College on top in the track world.

In our first 1947 track competition, a dual meet was staged with Shaw University. Shaw won the meet after our men had staged an exhibition of determination. Earl Foster won the one and two mile events in this meet.

The team prepared for stiffer competition by participating in the North Carolina Relays in Greensboro, N. C., with A. & T. College as host. The men really proved themselves at this meet by winning the meet with a 40 point margin over the other teams. Foster won the one and two mile events. Harrison won the one-fourth mile and Whitfield was second. Williams won the shot-put and White won the 220-yard dash.

Captain Earl Foster

At this writing the 1947 team has just completed participation in the "Second Annual North Carolina College Inter-Collegiate, Inter-Scholastic Track and Field Carnival." This annual event under the direction of Coach Leroy E. Walker proved to be of great significance to both the scholastic and collegiate entries. In the scholastic division, Second Ward High School of Charlotte, N. C., walked away with top honors and many individual honors. Our great track team composed of ten men put on one of the greatest exhibitions of determination ever witnessed on a track in many years. Howard University with thirty men was favored to win over Shaw University, A. & T. College, J. C. Smith University, Winston-Salem Teachers College, St. Augustine College and North Carolina College. Howard was able to enter two and three men in every event and thereby were at a greater advantage for winning the meet. However, the fleet-footed Eagles, with 1/3 as many men as Howard, proved that quality is better than quantity by tieing with Howard 48-48 for first place honors. The sportsmanlike men from N. C. C. gave the team trophy to the Howard team since the Eagles were hosts for the meet. However, many honors were taken by individual members of our team. Again Foster was the winner of the one and two mile events. He proved himself to be one of the top milers in the conference and has become one of the most feared. White accounted for five points on the cinders as he burned the track in a 9.8 seconds 100-yard dash. Five more points were also accounted for by White as he won the 220 yard dash in 22.8 seconds. In the field events, the champion javelin thrower of the C. I. A. A., Rudolph Roberson, threw the javelin and the discus to win another first place and 10 points. Samuel Williams and Hilbur Sparrow brought two more top positions to this school as Williams tied with a Howard contestant for first place in the shot-put and Sparrow high jumped 5' 10" to win this event.

The track team and coaches deserve highest praise for their work and their efforts in trying to place N. C. College on top in the track world. This 1947 track squad will go down in the pages of N. C. College History for the part they contributed to North Carolina College athletics.

Women In Sports

Women have taken a place in our intramural sports program. They have aroused keen competition among themselves and look forward to competing against each other for top intramural honors. Guided by the Physical Education Majors and Minors, an active and interesting program consisting of basketball, softball, archery, swimming and other sports took the spotlight in the 1947 activities.

The top feature of the program for 1947 was the basketball tournament which caught the attention of the entire student body. Each class participated in this annual event and the Sophomore class came out on top in 1947.

The women's intramural program is to be climaxed with a May Day program. This colorful and competitive event is always a great attraction for both students, faculty and visiting friends.

Maroon and Gray at Work

Typewriters seldom stopped. Assignments had to be made. Advertising space had to be sold. Write-ups were due. Seniors were slow in having their pictures made. Letters from the engraver were sometimes good, sometimes bad. Picture mounting was often done until "wee-hours" in the morning. The Maroon and Gray was on the way.

We have worked long and hard over her, we have sweated and toiled, but finally, our brain child has been completed. The advisors, the staff, the photographer, the printer and engraver—all have added their bit. We have striven arduously to make this the best yearbook.

Never before have so few done so much for so little. The hours were long, the work was monotonous; the credit is given here.

BASKETBALL AT N. C. C.

C. I. A. A. tournament; Downing, one of the greatest freshman finds in the conference, and the three seniors: Roberson, Brown and Stanley. These three seniors ended their collegiate basketball careers in true Eagle fashion. Rudolph "Rocky" Roberson, has established himself in basketball not only in this conference but in the eyes of the nation's sports followers. He was the national high scoring champion for 1943, 1944 and 1945, having made 58 points against Shaw University in 1943. He had a season average of 22 points. Roberson received a great commendation from Coach McLendon when he listed "Rocky" as the greatest pivot man ever to don a Maroon and Gray basketball suit. John "Big" Brown and Aubrey Stanley were also honored by Coach McLendon when he selected them to join Roberson on N. C. College's All-Time Basketball team with Reginald "Hawk" Ennis and Floyd "Cootie" Brown completing this honored five. These men join the ranks of Eagle immortals as they leave behind them great tracks in which those destined to follow may be privileged to trod.

To the greatest coach in the C. I. A. A., considered by many to be an authority, rated by many in the ranks of the top ten coaches in the country, the idol of every person who was ever connected with N. C. College basketball, I cannot express the feeling we have for him. Yes, Coach McLendon is the man to whom we offer our highest respect. Along with Coach Walker, he has given to us this great 1947 team. He said "it was a privilege for this team to play before the greatest sports in the conference." On behalf of all concerned I say that it was a privilege for us to watch the most sportsmanlike, most feared and most respected team in the conference. Highest respect to this wonderful coaching combination.

Doctor, Lawyer, Indian Chief?

His future is in the lap of fate but the one most certain thing in the world is change. Change often makes for progress and progress makes for a better way of life!

The Afro-American owes its existance to the fact that 55 years ago its founder, John H. Murphy, Sr. at the age of 51 had the foresight and fortitude to change from a whitewasher to a newspaper publisher.

Be alert to your opportunities of today and amendable to changes of tomorrow, for this is the pathway to progress!
